Reaction in Congress: U.S. Must Not Act Alone

By E. W. KENWORTHY Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, June 5-The dominant Congressional reaction today to the outbreak of hostilities between Israel and the Arab states was that the United States should take no unilateral action.

In both the Senate and the House of Representatives, the hope was that somehow the United Nations could get the hour. belligerents to agree to a cease-

Failing this, there was hope that the Soviet Union would agree to meet with the United States, Britain and France to work out a big power approach to the crisis.

members suggested that the raeli or Arab forces nor what United States should act alone, the situation was. if necessary, in coming to the aid of Israel, no leader in either body supported such action.

The prevailing sentiment was most forcibly expressed by Senator Richard D. Russell, Democrat of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the subcommittee on armed service appropria-always questioned the wisdom of the United States involvement there, told reporterd that he was "unalterably opposed to any unilateral intervention" in the Middle East.

Russell Opposes Lone Action

Whatever action the United States take inintary account the War in Viction.

Today, Mr. Fulbright said that the Russians had "apparmultilateral. And, he added, "the multilateral action should be multi-multilateral."

Today, Mr. Fulbright said that the Russians had "apparmultilateral action should be lit," he said, "I would anently missed a great opportunity to gain tremendous prestige" cil would, of necessity, be forced by acting as peacemakers.

Namara had briefed President they went to Capitol Hill for a sure from the Senate for unilat-volvement in meeting with leaders and the chairman and ranking members of Senate and the Senate have—to use a mod-lateral intervention.

U.N. or Big-Power Attempt ern. to Attain a Cease-Fire Is Generally Supported iately affected.

They were joined there by Richard Helms, director of the Richard Helms, director of the cision to request the removal meeting lasted just over one of United Nations forces from meeting lasted just over one

Those who attended declined comment, beyond saying that the briefing had dealt solely with the military situation and not with policy decisions. They added that the two secretaries and Mr. Helms had, at that moment, no clear idea of whether Although two or three House action had been initiated by Is-in the press. All they did was give us what fragmentary reports they had."

Just 'Fragmentary Reports'

The Administration, Mansfield told reporters, was taken by surprise. It had anticipated, he said, that there buster the situation." was still some room for diplo-Mr. Russell, who has given undeviating support to the war in Vietnam even though he has in bed supported by the distribution of the war in Vietnam even though he has in bed supported by the distribution of the war in Vietnam even though he has in bed supported by the distribution bed supported by the distribution of the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in bed supported by the distribution of the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the war in Vietnam even the last support of the last support of the war in Vietnam even though he has in the last support of the last s restraint and "the Soviet Un-outgrowth of our involvement ion had supposedly asked Egypt in Vietnam." Last week he had > the meeting with Secretary its influence with President Nasi Rusk and Secretary McNamara, ser to ease the crisis in return Mr. Mansfield said, that the for American agreement to de-United States take military ac-escalate the war in Vietnam.

be multi-multilateral." cil would, of necessity, be forced by acting as peacemakers.

At 9:30 A.M., after Secretary to face up to the situation. Regardless of these differences of Defense Robert S. Mc. be seen." ship of the Vietnam war and colloquialism-kept their cool about this."

But he also said that there might have been more pressure to help Israel if it had not been for "the situation in Vietnam."

House committees most immed-iately affected.

There were differences of opinion over whether United States involvement in Vietnam was directly related to President Gamal Abdel Nasser's de-Egyptian soil and his subsequent announcement blockade of the Gulf of Aquaba.

There were also differences of opinion about how much encouragement President Nasser had received from the So-viet Union to take his actions.

Mr. Mansfield thought that "this had happened apart from the situation in Vietnam." Senator Russell expressed doubt that President Nasser meant to go as far as he had, and thought Mike Mansfield, the Senate he probably would not have done Democratic leader, said, "You so if Secretary General Thant could have read the same things of the United Nations had not yielded precipitately to his request for the withdrawal of United Nations forces.

In fact, Mr. Russell said, "what U Thant needed was a few good Southerners to fili-Senator J. W. Fulbright, expressed the hope that the Soto restrain themselves." expressed the hope that the So-There was no suggestion in viet Union would agree to use be seen." ship of the Vietnam war and Asked whether the Adminis- the Middle Eastern crisis, it Johnson at the White House, tration was under much pres-was apparent that the heavy in-Congressional eral action, Mr. Mansfield said: largely responsible for the senchairman and "Both the Administration and timent against any further uni